

Airplane Flight To South Pole Plan Of British Party

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(By The Associated Press)—John L. Cope, leader and organizer of the British Imperial Antarctic Expedition, states that the preparations for his flight to the South Pole are well advanced. Experts are now engaged in designing the plane in which the flight will be made.

"We have received a terrible blow in the death of Brigadier General Lee, who had signed on with the expedition as chief of the aeronautical staff and would have piloted the plane to the South Pole," said Mr. Cope. "I am now in negotiation with one of the most famous airmen in the world, who, I think, will take the place of General Lee. I cannot disclose his name, but he has won the Victoria Cross as well as the Distinguished Service Order for his magnificent exploits as an airman on the western front."

Mr. Cope stated that he was not merely going to fly to the pole but that he intended to use the airplane throughout the six or seven years that the expedition would be on the ice. The Antarctic had never been charted properly, he said, owing to the fact that many parts were quite inaccessible on foot. It was his intention to chart the whole Antarctic from the air.

Second in command to Mr. Cope will be Ernest Joyce, who accompanied the first Scott expedition to the South Pole and was a member of both Shackleton expeditions.

WOULD RENAME PLAYS OF SHAKESPEARE FOR EFFECT

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(Associated Press)—Justina Wayne, dramatic actress, finds an explanation of the question as to why Shakespearean plays seldom win financial reward in what she terms Shakespeare's inability to give his productions catchy titles. She suggests a repertoire of the bard's plays rechristened to meet popular demands for stimulating titles.

She suggests "How Could You, Juliet?" as more appropriate than plain "Romeo and Juliet." She also would substitute "Call of the Flesh" for "The Merchant of Venice," "Strangled in Bed" for "Othello," "The Nutty Princess" for "Hamlet," "Hon, Whom Do You Love" for "Henry V," "Big Dick" for "Richard the Third," "The Knife" for "Julius Caesar" and "Moonlight and Honeysuckle" for "Midsummer Night's Dream."
